After the two panels were drawn for the Traverse jury with Deputy Eugene C. Libby of Norway in charge of the first and Deputy D. A. Court opened at 9:30 o'clock, the first case called was an action by Eugene F. Smith of Norway vs. Philip and Hazel McAllister of Norway and Harry L. Love of Greenwood, to fix the liability for the payment of a mortgaged note, given by the defendants.

Sometimes in 1914 Philip McAllister bought a cow, negotiating a loan of $45 from Eugene F. Smith. A note for six months was given, with interest and accommodation charges included, amounted to $55. This was secured by a mortgage on the property. In April 1915 McAllister, with Mr. Smith's permission, sold the cow to Harry L. Love of Greenwood for $60. This transaction brought another note into the deal given by said Love and endorsed by Mr. and Mrs. McAllister. Smith taking for his security, the cow, a horse and another note. A foreclosure resulted in the process of time and the three parties were made defendants in the above suit. Mr. Smith was represented by Alton C. Wheeler and the defendants' case handled by Albert J. Stearns. No witnesses being the principals were called.

This trial dragged along until 1 o'clock when a recess was called for dinner.

Business was resumed and the charge given. After deliberating an hour and ten minutes, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendants, claiming the value of the cow covers the face of the note.

Adjourned until Thursday morning.

Court Notes
County Attorney Bellevue hustled the criminal business along and the grand jury was discharged Thursday forenoon. County Treasurer Howard D. Smith and William A. Bicknell were on the spot with each juror's cash so closed up business on the spot.

RALLY DAY

Norway Universalists

This society fittingly observed the state wide service during the day. Special exercises were conducted in the Sabbath school at 2 o'clock by the children, who, exalted in a fine program well suited to their various ages. The exercises opened with a processional "Brightly Gleams Our Banner," then the responsive reading from the service book and prayer by the pastor, followed. Singing by the primary class and recitations appropriate to the occasion were given by Dorothy Cummings, Keith Bradbury, Thelma Bradbury, Master Henry Favor, Howard DeCoster, Ethelyn Elwood, Frances Moore and Dorothy Goodwin sang prettily "Come to the Rally Day." An offering was taken and the boxes were passed by Masters Carroll DeCoster and Houghton Kimball. Rev. C. G. Miller addressed the school, giving helpful suggestions and practical advice concerning a young christian's life.

The regular church service followed in the auditorium at 3 o'clock. The musical numbers were given by the "Young Men's" by Herbert Johnson, finely rendered by Alice Barden, and other vocal selections of worth by Ruth Akers. Rev. C. G. Miller, the pastor delivered a strong discourse which held the closest attention of his hearers.

Autumn decorations were conspicuous and effectively arranged under the direction of the Misses S. B. and Z. S. Prince. Mrs. Chas. Akers presided at the organ during the regular service and Adeline DeCoster was the accompanist during the Sunday school exercises.

Norway Congregational

The usual services were held with little variation as Rally Day was observed the previous Sunday with excellent results.

Rev. Robert J. Bruce preached a strong sermon and Lona Noble of Portland assisted the quartet in the morning services.

During the Sabbath School hour a pleasing feature was the graduation exercises conducted by the Juniors, when eight were taken into that department from the Chas. R. B. School. The graduates were Gordon Richardson, Elliott Cummings, Orrington Tubbs, Elizabeth Paul, Edwin Smith, Harry Smith, Paul Brown and Dorothy Pratt.

A special sermon in the evening by the pastor on Evangelism, was practically demonstrated, yet the question discussed concerning church problems could be applied to other religious societies, for the whole Protestant world is facing serious conditions. This discourse was suggested by the coming tercentenary celebration in 1920 of the landing of the Pilgrims, which is exceedingly suggestive to Congregationalists familiar with their church history.

Baptist Church Notes

Rally Day was observed at the Baptist Sunday School, Sunday, October 8th. The several committees worked hard to make the day the great success it was. Scholars and visitors were present to the number of 95. Two of the classes had the honor of having perfect attendance.

The church was attractively decorated with cut flowers and autumn leaves. The following program was given by the school:

Welcome to Grade Roll Members..... School Responsive reading, Psalm 124..... G. H. Newton Song, "His Rallying Host"..... Chorus On Rally Day.....
"Gathering Longley and Morice Brown In His Service"..... Six Girls
Six Little Scholars Department.....
Song, "The Banner of the Cross"..... School Address..... Rev. G. H. Newton Exercise, What We Can Do.....
"The Services" held Thursday at 1 o'clock in North Norway, Rev. C. G. Miller, officiating. Interment at Riverside cemetery at South Paris.

Rev. Newton in his remarks gave as a slogan for the school, for the coming year, Move On.

It was voted to start a contest; Elmer Aldrich, Capt. of the Reds, with 1st Lieu. Mildred French and 2nd Lieu. Albert Carroll. M. E. Millett, Capt. of the Blues, 1st Lieu. Hattie Judkins, 2nd Lieu. Chester French.

Christian Endeavor meeting, Thursday evening; Topic What New Work Should Our Society Undertake? Leader, Doris Longley.

Norway Methodist

The annual Rally Day of the M. E. church and Sunday School occurred Sunday, Oct. 8. It was an ideal day, and it seemed as if the weather was doing his best so that no one could find an excuse on his account for not attending.

At 10:30 the pastor preached a most inspiring sermon appropriate for the occasion, and also gave a talk to the children, a large number being present. The choir, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morgan, Helen Dunn and D. L. Joslin, gave several fine selections.

At 11:30 a special session of the Sunday School was held, and a fine program presented. The reading by Mrs. Nichols, recitations by the children, solos by Helen Dunn and O. P. Brooks, were finely rendered and were given hearty applause. One of the most pleasing features of the session was the music by Kimball's full orchestra.

Ralph Harriman, superintendent of the school, seemed to be the "Right Man in the right place" and must have been pleased to see so large an attendance, the number present, 223.

The decorations were very beautiful, these were in charge of Chester Gates and his helpers, and represented much hard work and loving service. Two of the mottoes deserve special mention, first, No Boy Would Go Wrong if Every Man Went Straight. What is Your Example? and the second "If You Would Train a Child in the Way He Should Go, Go That Way Yourself."

The Junior League at 3 o'clock, and Epworth League at 6, both had a large number present and it was indeed a Rally day with them in every sense of the word.

At the morning service, Rev. A. T. McWhorter of South Paris, gave his stirring address, "The Race is Not to the Swift and made it very plain to all present that it was time for them to get out the Reds and move on to something better, even to the King's Highway.

The large attendance at all of the meetings and the interest manifested in regard to the church, Sunday School and Leagues in many ways makes this the most successful and pleasing Rally Day in the history of the church.

Good Roads Meeting

On Wednesday, October 4, one of Maine's most enthusiastic road meetings was held at the Augusta House at Augusta. About 150 good roads representatives from all over the State were present, and to say that the "good roads movement in Maine" was growing daily would be putting it very lightly.

The question at issue was how best to raise money for the continuance of the trunk lines throughout the State. Various ways were presented to the meeting, but the feeling on the whole was that by a mill tax set aside for this particular purpose of road building was the best and fairest way to all concerned. Boards of trade and Chambers of Commerce from all the leading towns, were represented. The State Grange, Maine Automobile Association, Hotel Men's Association and Maine as a whole was urged to work for better roads and especially to continue the trunk lines and State Aid roads. All delegates were urged to organize Good Roads Committees in their respective towns and to keep the good roads ideas ever in the foreground of the minds of Maine people as a whole.

Delegates had the pleasure of listening to such men as Professor George C. Files of Bowdoin College, John E. Bunker, Senator of the State, Philip C. Deering, Chairman of the State Highway Commission, Paul D. Sargent, chief engineer Highway Department, W. C. Thompson, Master State grange and last, but not least, our next Governor, Hon. Carl E. Milliken of Island Falls.

All these different men favored the adoption of some plan to continue the trunk lines except the State Grange. Many who thought the Grange would be some form of local road work to help the rural districts, but could not see where in the trunk lines benefited the rural farmer as a class.

A vote of the meeting was finally taken and carried, that this committee recommend to the incoming Legislature that a way be provided to raise $500,000 yearly for building trunk lines and use as general good roads money. This was preferably by a one mill tax. The money collected from the registration of automobiles in the State to go to the maintenance of the roads already built.

Let us all help to make Maine a better state by helping out what we can of this road question, one of the greatest assets to any State.

Very truly yours,
L. Brown.
Delegate from Norway Board of Trade.

Howard R. Lowell

Howard R. Lowell of Lewiston died October 10, of organic heart disease, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Willie Durrell at North Norway, his age being 37 years, 1 month and 10 days. The deceased had been in failing health for several months, so gave up factory work, hoping country life would bring back health.

He was born at Paris, September 13, 1878, being the second son of Dexter J. and Sarah (DeCoster) Lowell of that town, where he lived for fifteen years. Since then shoe-making in the Auburn shops has been his occupation. Mr. Lowell married Lizzie Murphy, who died eight years ago, leaving a daughter, Helen, aged twelve, now living with relatives in Portland.

A father, Dexter E. Lowell of South Paris; two sisters, Mrs. Luke Morse and Mrs. Willie Durrell of Norway; and brothers, Clarence A. Irving, C. Edward R. and Charles A. survive.

The services were held Thursday at 1 o'clock in North Norway, Rev. C. G. Miller, officiating. Interment at Riverside cemetery at South Paris.

If you want to talk to the people in this vicinity, do it through this paper. Rates reasonable and alike to all.

Lost Fifteen Minutes of Time.
If the Norway Fire Department had responded to the call at the recent A. W. Walker fire, fully fifteen minutes of time could have been saved.

This, John Cullinan told me, and he ought to know.

In order to get the assistance of the Fire Department of the other villages, you must talk through the engineers of the department. This is according to the Corporation vote, I think, of both villages.

Some red tape anyhow!

Norway Lodge No. 1614 L. O. O. M. held their last regular meeting Friday, Oct. 6. There was a large attendance present and members from other lodges were represented. The initiatory ceremonies were conducted by the able degree team consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Avery returned last week to St. Louis. Dr. Avery is having a year's training in the City Hospital.

A hunting party passed through the village late Saturday afternoon on their way to Yarmouth, having chased game in the Magalloway region several days last week. In the auto was the commander-in-chief, Dr. George M. Bates, Norman Merrill, Clyde Bates, Earl (Happy) Gerald and Harry Porter. All of Yarmouth. They reported poor conditions for deer hunting because of the dense foliage, however, the sportsmen brought out two spiked-horned bucks and a doe. Dr. Bates is the son of the late Dr. J. Macomber Bates, that "grand old man" who was a ministering angel during forty-five years of unselfish conscientious service in Yarmouth, Freeport and surrounding towns; also the grandson of Dr. James Bates, who practiced his profession in Norridgewock, during the early part of the previous century.

Mrs. Fred Emery, with her daughter Helen and Francis Chandler, all of Biddeford, were the guests at Charles H. Adams' from Saturday until Sunday afternoon.

H. Walter Brown, the "big drive" of the Norway Novelty Turning Company, and building board on the outside of his mill, where the World Series games were recorded each day by innings, as the battle progressed.

Mrs. Nellie Dyer spent Sunday in Lewiston.

Mrs. Etta Buck returned from Lewiston, Wednesday, where she has been visiting friends.

NORWAY MUNICIPAL COURT

Wm. F. Jones, Judge.
Roland Ripley came before the court Wednesday, charged by officer John A. Titus of obstructing an officer in the performance of his duty. It seemed that this official was executing an order from Chief Justice Savage, and when on the Farmachence Lake in a canoe with defendant, suddenly found himself overturned—it was either sink or swim. Of course Ripley pleaded not guilty to the charge, yet the court found probable cause, so bound him over with $200 bail. He was committed.

Co. D. Boys in Augusta.

The 2nd Regiment will be in Augusta Sunday sure, probably by Friday at latest.

You, who have autos and want to do one of the kindest acts of your life, should volunteer to take some of the families of the boys of Co. D to Augusta to see them.

Remember these boys have been down in a part of the country that the poem says was given to the devil for his hell, for four long months and you can little realize how much it will mean to them to have their families carried to them for a day.

There will be big demonstrations by other towns and don't let Norway and Paris be behind.

Will those who will go and carry someone please see or communicate with the committee: Norway—L. M. Carroll, Dr. Harry P. Jones, J. Waldo Nash, Chas. H. Pike, Giles, Carl Paris, Dr. D. M. Stuart, Walter L. Gray, S. S. Maxin, Chas. A. Bowker; and state how many you can carry.

The men will no doubt stay in Augusta ten days or two weeks.

On their return it is planned to make a big demonstration here with a big feed.

Everybody fall in.

Capt. J. Waldo Nash.
A movement has been started to give a concert and ball in the Opera House along with other demonstrations.

Mrs. J. A. Stone of Rochester, N. Y., is visiting her son, Walter L. Stone.

D. E. Caron of Montreal has been located at the Grand Trunk station at the past week, taking Mr. Miles' place. Mr. Caron will not remain permanently.

At the meeting of Oxford Lodge No. 18 F. and A. M., Friday evening the B. A. degree was conferred on one candidate. At the business meeting, Fred E. Smith was elected and installed Secretary, to fill the vacancy caused by the retiring from this office of Howard D. Smith, who has served Oxford Lodge as secretary for 37 consecutive years in an able and efficient manner. A committee composed of R. H. Eastman, Eugene Andrews and John Lasselle were appointed to make arrangements for the observance of ladies' night.

The Woodland Rebekah lodge of Harrison has been invited to visit the Mt. Hope Rebekah lodge No. 58, Norway, Thursday evening, November 2, at which time the local lodge will exemplify the degree. The annual sale which was to have taken place on that date has been postponed until later in the winter.

Mrs. Talbot Mundy spent last week in New York, where she was doing some painting. Mr. Mundy met her in Portland, Sunday and they spent a few days the guests of B. P. Lyman at Yarmouth and attended the Maine Musical Festival.

Joseph Dearborn found a curious looking potato last of the week while digging his potatoes. The potato in question had grown in the center of a tin can cover with a flange of half an inch of cover around it. We have heard of fruit such as pears and apples being put in a bottle to grow but not potatoes in the hole of a tin can cover.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton S. Massek after spending the summer at the Weirs, N. H., where he runs a store, has returned to his Norway store. They have rented Mrs. Julia Horne's house on Main street for the winter.

The first annual Moose Ball given by the Loyal Order of Moose, will be held Friday evening, October 27th, at the Norway Opera House. Music will be furnished by Shaw's orchestra. Arthur H. Welch will be floor manager and the aids will be Herman Richardson, Bert Melvin and Osman Hill.

Mrs. Daniel Harlow of Turner was a recent guest of Mrs. Mary Bennett. Mrs. Harlow and Mrs. Bennett were schoolmates and the last time they met was at Mrs. Bennett's wedding reception 46 years ago.

Elben Shackley, speaking the other day about the so called "Sanborn's folly" at Round Pond, stated that the largest part of the section of land near the pond and Jim Hill once belonged in his father's family. Elben further stated that "he had a camp when a boy, near the present 'folly' where, during several winters, lumber and cord wood was taken out. This was fifty years ago, before Fred was large enough to do much trout fishing."

Eugene E. Andrews is having his Main street residence painted. John F. Hutchins and Cy Witham are doing the work. Prof. Charles H. Danforth returned to Washington University at St. Louis, on the early train Saturday. Mrs. Annie Danforth Massek will probably remain in town for a visit. Dr. and Mrs. Walter Avery returned last week to St. Louis. Dr. Avery is having a year's training in the City Hospital.

A hunting party passed through the village late Saturday afternoon on their way to Yarmouth, having chased game in the Magalloway region several days last week. HOW does he stand at the bank?

How often is this question asked, not only of the small, but the big business man? If you have a small account at the bank make up your mind to increase it. You cannot tell when you may need extra cash to extend your business. If you are right at the bank you not only have the cash at hand, but the bank will help you with a loan.

A community is judged by the number and the standing of its banks. Successful merchants make successful banks. And successful banks help to make successful merchants.

Anna Barrows was at home Tuesday afternoon to the members of the class of 1917, Fryeburg Academy. The class numbers twenty and that company was increased by the presence of Principal Ernest Weeks and the entire teaching force of the school. Miss Barrows followed a custom that was established by her father, George B. Barrows, and continued by Mrs. Barrows after the death of her husband. It has been for many years one of the pleasantest social events of the class happenings. The Barrows home on Main street is filled with valuable and interesting articles. Not the least among them being an autograph letter written by Daniel Webster in 1802, he was then the Academy's principal. The letter is framed in a piece of wood taken from the first old school building that stood at the foot of Pine Hill. Miss Barrows served refreshments assisted by Miss Harriet Abbott.

Fryeburg's famous twins, Samuel and William Gordon, passed their 22nd birthday last Tuesday. They are as keen and bright as ever and would easily be taken for sixty-five years. Their brother, Dr. Seth G. Gordon, although four years older, is as erect and steps off with the alacrity of a young man. A lady who was visiting in Fryeburg this summer was inquiring who the doctor was, and when informed, looked puzzled. "I have heard of Dr. Gordon many times, but expected to see a much older man; why I thought he must be a man seventy-five years old!"

Maine People to Travel 12,000 Miles

The proposed State of Maine National Wide trip, is to be undertaken during the period of time extending from May 26 to July 4, 1917. This journey by the citizens of the Pine Tree State is to cover 12,000 miles from coast to coast and from the Gulf to the Lakes.

For the purpose of exploiting Maine's resources and advantages, this National Wide Trip of Maine men and women across the continent, will be promoted under the auspices of the Maine State Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce of Portland, and commercial organizations and interests of the State of Maine. The trip will be the biggest, most interesting and most instructive tour ever taken by any delegation of American people. Leaving Portland Saturday, May 26, 1917, in a special train of Pullman cars, practically every large commercial center and point of interest will be visited during the 39 days of the tour.

That the people of this Nation may be enlightened as to the numerous advantages offered by Maine, is one of the main purposes considered in the arranging of this tour, and also to let the people in the "Land of Promise" west of us know of this "Land of Certainties." This trip is to advertise Maine as nothing heretofore has done. Every city and section of the State will be afforded an opportunity to distribute its advertising matter. Newspapers from coast to coast will herald the trip. Motion pictures of the scenic beauty and industrial development of Maine will be shown in every city visited.

The trip will be interesting, educative and profitable to all who participate and tour has been made open to all men and women of Maine, with accommodations limited to 100. While on a Western business trip during the past week, Executive Secretary Moore was approached by a number of the executives of several cities, all of whom urged that their city be included in the itinerary and assured that the heartiest welcome and greatest hospitality possible will be shown by every city to the members of this State of Maine National Wide Trip.

Among the places to be visited are Atlanta, New Orleans, Houston, Texas, Grand Canyon, San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Del Monte, Santa Cruz, San Francisco, Portland, Oregon, Tacoma, Seattle, Spokane, Butte, Montana; Yellow Stone Park; Salt Lake City; Colorado Springs; Denver, Omaha, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Buffalo and New York.

Cattle Show at North Waterford

For many years past the farmers, traders and mechanics of Waterford, Albany and Stoneham have united and set apart a date as a field day. They meet on the village green to exhibit stock, pull cattle, talk horses and see friends and acquaintances. The schoolhouse is the exhibition hall for the fine and choice handiwork of the women, supplemented of course with the fruits of the farm and orchard, the dairy and kitchen.

Last Friday was the field day.

Fair at North Waterford.

Baked beans at Mosher's.

No empty horse stalls in town.

Peddlers' fakirs and candy-men.

Men, women, children, horses, cows, sheep, pigs and the like.

Dance in the evening.

Supper at M-sher's and more dancing.

Everybody happy.

A hilariously happy crowd, a free show and a day of out-door enjoyment.

This is in brief, a North Waterford cattle show.

It has a large patronage from Norway.

Some of that town's bad boys and, for that matter, girls go there with rum in their pockets and dancing outfits in their grips. They make Rome howl, as it were, and shock the staid propriety of many a good citizen.

A Brilliant Fall Opening.

The Brown, Buck & Company of Norway offered the public a brilliant one-day display Saturday, Oct. 7. The public seemed to appreciate this unusual opportunity, for they did their part toward making the effort a success, by their presence and sizeable purchases, especially during the evening.

The large store was just overflowing with the latest fall clothing well displayed. Ready made suits, skirts, waists in silk or heavy material, coats of every popular style and description, a large display of furs that certainly looked warm and cozy; sweaters galore in several shades, but the cute four piece winter combination of nice warm material for that little chap was a winner. Blankets of wool and mixtures were piled high on the counters, while a varied assortment of bolsters made an attractive display. Matings, rugs and table coverings were also included in this sale. The display of outing flannels was a large one, all of the staple colors and color combinations were effectively arranged to the best advantage.

Entertainment in the form of a musical program was given by Shaw's orchestra, Walter S. Stearns, violin; Frank Knapp, cornet; Howard Shaw, clarinet; Mrs. Fred Moore, piano, from 2:30 to 4:30 and from 7 to 9 o'clock.

A large force of clerks were on hand attending to all visitors and everything moved along smoothly. Those doing duty were Edith Parker, Mrs. Etta Maxim, Mrs. Bessie Pierce, Kate Bradbury, Mrs. John Lasselle, Mrs. Etta Norsworthy, Percy Nevers, Jr., and of course the genial managers, Fred S. Brown and Albion L. Buck.

Mrs. Stanley Wheeler of South Paris, as the living model, in the garment department proved attractive, as the large patronage in that section would prove. Decoration of autumn leaves around the interior of the store in proper contrasts, added a real cheery feeling to the occasion.

Mr. Herlihy Visits Norway.

Mr. James F. Herlihy, of the Herlihy Studio of Dancing, of Portland, was a visitor in town over the week end. The guest of Mrs. Florence F. Anderson, Mr. Herlihy has recently returned to Maine after devoting the entire summer in New York in study with Louis H. Chalif of the Imperial Ballet of Russia and also Signor Stefano Masagnio, director of ballet of La Scala.

Mr. Herlihy has paid particular attention to exercises and dances to be given in his classes for children, in which he has had great success.

As to modern dancing, the Fox-Trot, One Step and Waltz Carter are the popular dances. Mr. Herlihy has had great success in this branch of his profession, using many of the figures originated by Maurice, the peer of Society Dancers, in this country.

Norway people will be interested in the following from the Industrial Journal.—In its spacious factory on the banks of the Georges River in Warren, the shoe company of Spinnery & Maybury, Henry H. Spinnery, treasurer, and J. H. Maybury, president, is doing a large New York business this summer in women's vest shoes.

Mrs. E. O. French of North Norway sent us in a good sized box. In it were strawberries, raspberries and blackberries, a pint or more of each. They were no cold storage products, but fresh from the garden as far as we could detect. There were also some of the finest apples that are grown, McIntosh Reds. Is it possible the frost hasn't got into the French neighborhood yet?

SECOND MAINE REGIMENT

The soldiers of the 2nd Maine Regiment left Texas, Monday and are expected to reach Maine by Saturday. According to orders received by Col. Frank Hume, Second Maine Infantry, at Laredo, Texas, the regiment will leave the Mexican border for its home station at Augusta, Monday.

The grand brigade review of the troops by General Frederick Funston and his staff at Laredo, Texas took place the 6th and was probably one of the most imposing sights from a military standpoint of the last days of duty by the troops now on the border and will signal the return to their home stations of thousands of America's young manhood, who have played that most difficult military game, inactive waiting. It is this review, however, that has apparently delayed the return home of the Pine Tree State soldier boys, for it is understood that they would have left Laredo immediately upon receiving orders had not this ceremony been in prospect.

Unlike troops of some other National Guard organizations, no delay was made necessary by lack of winter equipment, for the Maine boys were fully equipped for winter service when they went South, and instead of having to await issue of the heavier winter uniforms before coming North, they could have, so far as this is concerned, left at any time during the past three months. The failure to issue the heavier equipment to the troops of some of the other Northern states, has, it is reported, interfered seriously with the troop movement, the instance in the Massachusetts regiment being called to mind. As regards the Second regiment of Bay State troops, orders were issued by the War Department to equip the members of the regiment with the winter equipment in less than 48 hours after they had been given their summer equipment.

OXFORD

Heslop-Wardwell

A pretty wedding took place Friday afternoon at one o'clock at the home of Leander F. Wardwell when his daughter, Charlotte Augusta Wardwell, was united in marriage to Charles Merle Heslop, son of Mrs. Lewis Washburn of Oxford.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Anson Williams in the presence of relatives and thirty-five invited guests.

The house was handsomely decorated with cut flowers, autumn leaves and ferns. To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Ida Stone, the bride party entered—the ribbon bearers followed by the groom and best man, the matron of honor followed by the bride and her father, who gave her in marriage. The bride was handsomely attired in white tulle and georgette crepe with silver trimmings and carried a bouquet of white bride roses.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Nina Stone of Portland; a sister of the bride, who wore a dress of white voile with pink accessories. The ribbon bearers were Mrs. Walter Heslop, a sister of the bride, who wore a dress of blue silk and Mrs. Sewall Thornton of Auburn, who is a bride of only a few months and wore her wedding gown. The best man was E. Leland Stone.

After the ceremony, the bride, bridesmaids, and wedding cake were served by Mrs. Heslop, Mrs. Stone and Miss Quinn. The wedding cake was made by the sister of the bride, Mrs. Heslop.

After the wedding trip, which will be spent on an automobile tour through Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. Heslop will make their home in Oxford. The bride's traveling suit was of blue serge with purple hair.

Mr. Heslop is a mechanic by trade. Among the out of town guests present were Charlotte Walker, Mr. and Mrs. E. Leland Stone and Mrs. Sewall Thornton of Auburn.

Discounting Commercial Paper

Until recently, the accommodation a business man could get at his bank depended upon many factors besides the actual warrant of his business.

One important factor was the local money situation—how much money local business men needed, and how much the local bank had free to loan.

Under the Federal Reserve System, this Institution has discounting resources never before available.

Wayside Sketches

Shattered Nerves Temporarily Restored, (and Apples)

I took Frank H. Noyes recently, out to a ride. When invited he raised all sorts of objections and said he couldn't go, but finally consented. While I was at Dr. Bartlett's he telephoned in that it was impossible to go, as he was sick and going to bed. Dr. Bartlett was of the opinion I would be doing an act of kindness to make him go. Now, kindness is my strong suit when it can be bestowed without a great amount of self denial. Noyes demurred and fussed and told me of his many hours of toil, of mental anguish, shattered nerves and an empty stomach.

I was there to carry out the doctor's orders and ride he must or die. He chose the former with all its hardship, bumps and jolts and consented to go to Mechanic Falls. I wished to Walter to his car and touch only the high places and occasionally would look to see whether I'd call on Add Gammon or an undertaker at the Falls.

Before reaching there, however, Mr. Noyes had pulled together his shattered nerves, was breathing regularly and talking glibly. So much for carrying out the good doctor's prescription.

Add Gammon was not at home. I woke up the colored lady who presides over the house and requested she hand our card to Mr. and Mrs. Gammon on their return. It was very sensible of them to be out using the good weather just like what we were doing.

West Minot was reached. I didn't see any railroad station, but am told they have one hidden away somewhere handy. The road to the State Sanitarium is up hill for about three miles. Heavy rains have washed it, bringing out in places a good crop of stubble rocks. Some of the rocks will be a long time in washing out, as they are simply immense. If altitude, good air and scenery will cure, you have it here in abundance. This institution has been reasonably successful handling tuberculosis in the past ten years.

Buildings look well from the outside and Orchard Lane is both useful and pretty. The cows look nice to me, as did the long distance views of hills, mountains and valleys tinged with red, green and purple. Orchards and apples! You should see them! Many of the roads are flanked with loaded trees tipped and shored up. I mean trees by the roadside—not over the fence—there is no fence here. It's so rocky you can't get a post down, hence, fence means stone wall. This prevails pretty near all over Hebron—or at least the part I visited.

On the left, dropping down the north cant of Greenwood Hill, for that was its name before the invasion of the State, I found a worth-while hogger in the open but under apple trees loaded with fruit. I counted over a dozen hogs that were busted for size and indolence and there were so many little and spy ones frisking about, I gave it up. I don't know who owned 'em or where they sleep nights, but the apple tree had bigger and darker green leaves than any I had seen en route.

I did not want to return home via Hebron's great temple of learn, so long and ably presided over by Prof. W. E. Sargent, whose fame as an organizer, teacher and scholar is known almost round the world. I followed the sign which says "Paris Hill 6 miles." The back-up of a car in a man's door yard is a saucy trick, but it had to be done here.

A mile or more along on this road and there was another sign giving the same distance to the former capital city of Oxford county. I took it and viewed the distant hill and narrowing roadway with awe. A "Ford" and a Hudson car were by the roadside just as we were to plunge down into the valley and as a matter of caution, I made inquiries and was told to turn about and take the first right-hand road and go to South Paris and then onto Paris Hill. It was the easiest and better way. Attention was called to a flat rear tire and a change had to be made.

Austin Stearns and his brother, Henry K. Stearns, came from an orchard into the road and invited me to look at some loaded fruit trees in a nearby orchard. It was owned by Henry K. Stearns, who now lives at Mechanic Falls, having sold his Hebron farm some years ago to the State, reserving the two orchards.

He had a carload of apples in the store house which he had built this season, which he was to start on their way to Liverpool, Eng., this week. He could not say what price he was to get for them. It depended on market conditions. In the old orchard Mr. Stearns showed me a tree from which was picked six barrels of apples and there are many more trees equally well loaded.

Maybe there are 140 trees in this orchard in the way one there were over 490 which he set out the year of Norway's big fire. That was 22 years ago the 9th of last May. Many of these trees are heavily loaded with fruit.

I noticed all the trees were low-posted and only a step ladder was necessary for gathering the apples. The trees were all open umbrellas. The trees are carefully sprayed and apples looked perfect and of pronounced color.

Mr. Stearns has sold the bulk of his apples to go to Cleveland, Ohio, for $2 per barrel and they come from the tree. Baldwin's are the principal variety raised. Many thousand barrels of apples are being harvested in Hebron. I'd like to know the total amount of money they will bring in. It will be a big sum of money.

Standard apple barrels are costing 35 cents each.

Flossie (Frost) Gurney, with apron on, big-eyed and handsome, was picking apples by the roadside. Apple trees, barrels and ladders were strewn around promiscuously. The car went by so quickly she didn't recognize us. This is one of the kids in motoring over the country. You often skip friends you'd like to talk with and they think you are "stuck up" and make ugly remarks about you. Flossie was raised in Norway and married a relative of the late Lemuel Gurney and I presume lives on the old farm. It's a pretty place anyhow and there were children in the yard.

The Advertiser wants all the local news from Hebron. If the territory is not now covered by a correspondent, write the office about it and become a news gatherer.

If present correspondents are negligent, punch 'em up a little. Local news are always wanted at the Advertiser's office.

Fifteen autos were passed coming into Norway between 5 and 6 o'clock last Sunday afternoon, in less than that number of minutes. Everybody rides and those who don't, want to.

That good gravel street near Al Walker's, South Paris, has been very busy. Were the loads of good material "dumped" or spread? Would like to know! I think the former. Conditions indicate that the cart was tipped. You can't surface a road that way and have it smooth.

SOUTH WATERFORD.

Newell-Monroe
A very lovely and quite ornate wedding was celebrated at the Oak Lawn home of Mrs. Alma Augustus Monroe on Thursday, Oct. 5, when Alice Mae, eldest daughter of Mrs. Monroe was married to Arthur M. Newell of West Milan, N. H. at 1:30 P. M. The celebrant of the occasion was Rev. G. W. Sias, pastor of the Union church.

The attendants upon the ceremony were Ethel M. Monroe, maid of honor; Madeline H. Newell of West Milan, bridesmaid; Ruth Monroe, flower girl; Helen E. Monroe, ring bearer; boy of Melrose Highlands, Mass. The bridegroom was attended by the best man, Albert J. Newell, his twin brother. The bride was given away by her eldest brother, Frank A. Monroe of Melrose Highlands, Meade's wedding March was played by Mrs. Arthur L. Sanderson during the entrance of the bridal party. The ushers were Mrs. George F. Hill, South Waterford, and Miss Alma Honey of Holyoke, Mass.

The bride was dressed in white taffeta combined with a Georgette crepe and navy trimming; veil held by small white flowers; bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The groom was in conventional black. The maid of honor and bridesmaid were gowned in yellow and white. The bridal party stood in an evergreen arch, decorated with white flowers, and under a wedding bell of evergreen and white.

The invited guests present were near relatives and friends of the family from Hyde Park, Holyoke, Melrose Highlands, Mass., Bridgton, South Paris, West Milan and 25 members of the Rebecca Degree Team of Milan, N. H., accompanied by L. A. Bickford, esq., superintendent of Milan Public schools; and a large attendance of home guests, numbering eighty in all. Incidental to this celebration and gathering of the clans was the big fleet of automobiles to right and left and all over the lawn.

The bride and groom departed at 4 p. m. amid showers of rice and old shoes, leaving on the 5:02 train for Portland from South Paris, for an extended trip to Niagara Falls and Canada. Numerous gifts of cut glass, silver, linen and money were displayed on the reception room tables. The dining room was decorated with red and white and a profusion of flowers everywhere. The bride and groom were followed to South Paris by her brothers in law, who piled to overflowing with friends and relatives.

There was ice cream and wedding cake galore. Horace Smith was the efficient caterer.

Raymond Saunders entered Bridgton academy last week for a course of preparatory study for college.

Alice Kneeland is enjoying a visit with friends in Westbrook and Portland.

Corra Allen and Mrs. Randall of Bridgton were visiting in Dixfield and West Sumner last week.

The Advertiser Has a Long Reach

The fact is well known that the State of Maine has contributed her full quota of strong men and women to the industrial, governmental or educational framework of almost every state in the Union. Yet another fact may not be so well known, is that the Norway Advertiser has a wide and versatile circulation throughout the metropolitan traveler. Let us illustrate.

This office received under the date of October 2 a letter from F. L. Hutchins, whose home address is 4703 9th Avenue, North East, Seattle, Wash., stating that a copy of the county fair edition came under his observation and the half tone upon the front page showed the "Pugst Sound Machinery Depot" manufacturers and dealers of machinery and supplies at Seattle, Washington.

The Pike Hill Stone Crusher.

Get busy some day and hike up Pike
Hill, where the big stone crusher is eating up the walls and loose rocks like a hungry kid going through a bag of Christmas candy.

This outfit is located just above the Eben Shackley place, close to the road, Gilman Milliken and Hoyt Harbor, both from Bar Harbor, are on the spot willing to answer questions, or explain the crush-er's good qualities. Arthur Gary is also about, but he is busy chucking feed into the powerful jaws and unable to spend much time off the job.

To begin with, the crushing machine has a triple personality. A crusher weighing 6 tons; the conveyor, separator and bins representing 3 tons, and a 35 horse power electric motor. Near this outfit is a large landing where Ed. Rich and several men with three double teams are hauling and dumping the "feed", almost into the very jaws of this monster, for the platform is built over the crusher so there are no hard tugs.

The manner of getting road material is like this. Any old thing of rock variety is passed into the crusher's powerful jaws and the pulverized product carried in an iron bucket chain conveyor to a separating separator, perhaps eight feet long and two feet in diameter, covered by a screen of five different sized meshes.
These screens correspond to the same number of bins, and as the rock material passes along through this sieve the several grades from dust to coarse rock (termially) are automatically sorted, ready for the teams, which are loaded by merely dropping a chute into the cart and gravity does the rest.

All kinds of surface drift rock is used, from the straight granite through the list to hornblende and trap and the last being exceedingly hard and difficult to crush, if given in large doses. Uncle Eben has lost his double wall from the house to the Braden line and the nearby farms will become smooth as a skating rink before Main street is completed.

At the present time immense quantities of drift are being hauled in from land near Tim Heath's quarry.

The crew has been on the job about four weeks, but have hardly made a start; probably not one-fourth is ground up as yet. They estimate that 35 cubic yards of material output, and it takes four double teams, each hauling 1 cubic yard, to keep the steam mixer from slacking up.

RAMBLING WAYSIDE NOTES, SKETCHES, MUSINGS, ETC.

I went to Casco last Monday. Seventeen years ago I was there and attended the fair with O. M. Cummings. We drove over the coon road then, as I did on our last trip. Orrington drove one of his spirited horses and Walter last Tuesday manipulated a gasoline chariot and took along Mrs. Wm. O. Leavitt, Mrs. Elizabeth Sampson and the Mrs.

Somewhat, I failed to find the farms and fields looking as well and prosperous as on my earlier visit. I notice several sets of buildings are no more. The land is there but uncultivated and many of the then prosperous farms now look neglected.

This is true of Casco village and Webb's Mills. The long haul to a railroad and Sears, Roebuck Co., are surely in evidence. The buildings sag and are out of shape and some stores closed and dwellings unoccupied.

I tell it as I found it. Sorry it's so, but it is—unless I'm mistaken. Pleasant Pond is a gem spot and round it are some recently built attractive summer homes. More are to be built. There is Leighton of Cambridge, Mass., is to erect one on Mayberry Hill, near the residence of G. B. Mayberry.

Of course I called on the latter and found his barn well filled with the products of his farm. No doubt other barns in the vicinity are the same.

There is a living here for any one who knows how to farm and is willing to work.

Mr. Mayberry as usual, is the chairman of the board of selectmen. How many years he has held this office, I dare not say.

In Otisfield I discovered a well kept and packed church and a large burying ground that was new to me. The church was surrounded by good sized pines and on it was a belfry. The yard was well cared for and had numerous headstones. A few houses, an empty mill pond and a tumbled down saw mill were passed before coming to the church. I think the waters of Moose Pond find an outlet here.

Little Rigby fair grounds were passed. No one seemed to live in the Nutting house near its entrance. I dare not withstand the temptation of driving on the grounds and looking round.

It brought to my mind earlier days, when things were more lively here and local racing horses numerous and there was music and dancing and big crowds of people. I sold some cards here for several seasons and made many acquaintances and got some money along with lots of fun.

Not a great amount of repairs have been made during my absence—held a fair and horse race has been absent here each year. I am told Mr. G. B. Mayberry was the active head for the show this season and it got by in good shape. Surely there is an opportunity to spend some money on fence repairs.

Next season I intend to be there and mingle with the crowd and eat baked beans, cake and pie and write the story of Little Rigby Festivities.

The route taken from Norway: Webber schoolhouse to Frederick Roby Grange building and turn to the left and took next right, sign says "Casco 12 miles".

Pass Moose Pond to the right, pass collection of houses, white church on the left, take Coon Road—guide board shows Mayberry Hill, Pleasant Pond to the right and then around the outlet to Casco village, thence by the Mills to Tripp Lake, formerly Pond, to State Road, this side of Poland Corner, over Pigeon Hill to Norway. Distance 42 miles.

Owen P. Brooks of Norway lives most of the time on Pigeon Hill. I saw his cart there Tuesday.

A good wide road is being made into West Paris. Many men and teams are now working on it. Expect to get it so the Governor, I should say, Senator-elect, can get out this year's corn pack and lead off in the November election celebrations.

There are a whole snarl of cottages round Tripp Lake. Dance boards, pavilions with diving chute apparatus! Summer company and three months' prosperity here. Looks well, glad to see it and wish there were more.

Walter drove the car seven miles in 16 minutes. He didn't know I was timing him.

"Don't pick apples too early this fall." That was the order from headquarters some weeks ago and it's being observed, too. I judge from the quantity now on the trees. The past ten days of warm weather and sun has colored the apples in great shape.

Roads quickly wear out. A year ago at this time there was a smooth road leading from Webb's Mills to Tripp Pond. It isn't so now. The most of it has worn out. What can be done to remedy this? That's the problem. Who can solve it?

PURITY AND POWER

Necessary to Overcome Impure and Weak Condition of the Blood.

The grip, hard colds, pneumonia, fevers, diphtheria and other blood-poisoning, prostrating diseases leave the whole system subnormal—below par—weak and slow—blood depleted and thin, with that tired feeling, poor appetite, delicate digestive power or almost none at all.

The ideal treatment is Food's Sarsaparilla—thoroughly to purify the blood and expel poisons, and Lipton Pills, the new pepton, nux and iron tonic—to put power into the blood, give strength, increase red corpuscles and restore normal health.

Food's Sarsaparilla has in forty years won and held the favor of the people, almost to the exclusion of other sarsaparillas and blood purifiers.

Begin this course of medicine today. Any druggist will supply you.

NORWAY AND VICINITY.

A Miracle or Simple Suicide, Which?
Mrs. Mary Bennett of 11 Maple street received a scare Monday morning and was greatly overcome for several minutes by the calamity.

The good lady was hanging out the washing as usual when, Bang! some living object against the line close to her. The body fell to the ground; there was a faint flutter, then all was quiet. Naturally, Mrs. Bennett almost went into hysterics as her first thoughts were "mice." Finally the Spartan courage returned and she investigated. Lying there on the ground was a partridge with a broken neck—dead to things material. Mrs. Bennett is a practical woman and realized that poultry costs lots of money, so this Providential gift was turned to good account and made into a delicious broth for the dinner Tuesday.

THINK IT OVER

In the Frank A. Noyes Blue Store, Norway, near the senior member's desk can be found a collection of pithy sayings written up by clear headed writers, who draw fat envelopes each pay day. These trained minds originate attractive advertising. They draw their material from a personal knowledge of men and everyday conditions; they take the pulse of human life everywhere and strip off that veneer.

It may be true that all of this expense is not a dead man's game. There are no pink teas set for a man or a woman who would wrest an honorable living from, or become a human dynamo in this mad whirl of universal competition. Never blame your poor old ancestors for that chronic "lazy trouble." Brace up and just forget it.

Young chap, when you reach that "wise" age and break away from the teachings of mother and the "Governor," expecting to plunge into the business world by a through pass on the fast lane, make up your mind to a soft, downy job at the end of the line—forget that also.

It's a big hard along a slow prosy route is the cost of success. When looking for a chance to break in and you are facing the keen gaze of the "big one," remember first to be polite and cast aside that "cotton talk." The alert manager of today defines the cigar as a "dope-stick with fire on one end, a fool on the other."

Second, if you have passed, remove those kid gloves and that two-for-a-quarter neck choker. A fifty cent black shirt won't spoil your chances for advancement if the rest of the goods can be delivered. Third, make up your mind to start on the ground floor. The management won't have couches or clocks in every convenient spot. However there will be a way provided to let you know when quitting time comes and nice long chance to sleep after supper.

Fourth, keep your mind on the first floor until you can go anywhere blind folded. Remember the elevator is running to the tip-top at all hours, so that when the "big chief" senses your ability (he isn't blind) you will be invited to pack your grip for a trip upward.

The following pointers were taken at random from Mr. Noyes' collection at the Blue Store. Read carefully. Look your own situation squarely in the eye, then think it over.

"A man without a purpose in life gets as far as a fish without a tail."

"The man who doesn't believe in himself has a hard job trying to make others believe in him."

"The devil doesn't undoubtedly gets there because its first up in the spring, last out in the fall and on the job every minute."

"There never yet was a winner who didn't know how to take a wallop."

"Never bother with a man who says the world is getting worse—send for a physician."

"Hit your wagon to a star—but don't forget the axle grease."

"From the neck down, a man is worth about $150 a day, but from the neck up—Oh! that's up to you."

Abraham Lincoln once said, "Don't whine about your lack of opportunity. There are opportunities for everyone who is able to convince the world by his industry that he is worthy."

Signed, The Cub.

Harrisburg, Penn.—"When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. Hardly Able to Move.
Albert Lea, Minn.—"For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Light Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them."—Mrs. F. E. YOST, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

I soon became regular, and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. CLARETTINA DUERRING, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

GREAT PUBLIC INTEREST MATTERS

Written to Forget Present Miseries and Live Over in Memory the Early Days When I was Well and Strong.

Printed to Keep Peace with the Writer.

A few years ago in the smoking compartment of a G. T. Ry. car leaving Portland, I met an elderly man quietly pulling at a briar-wood and occasionally pushing down the burned tobacco with the rubber end of a pencil. He was well dressed and showed marks of city life.

I told the conductor to take mileage to South Paris. The stranger asked if I were acquainted there. I told him I lived in Norway and had a fair knowledge of the place. He said he was born on a farm beyond Paris Hill and his father and mother were there and his mother's family were natives of that town. His name was Drake. He was going there to find out about them from the headstones in the graveyard as he wanted to complete the Family Genealogy. He said he was making and couldn't get the data in any other way.

He asked me if I were interested in such matters. I told him "No." He viewed me a moment and said, "You are not old enough yet; you will come to it later on."

I am getting there now and can see the force of his remark. I have been listening back on the past rather than tracing family pedigree. That may come later.

Peter Shores and Aunt Hannah occasionally visited us. Peter was minus the middle finger on his right hand. It was said he "fiddled" a chain with it instead of using a stick of wood.

They usually came in cold weather in a pung drawn by a sorrel horse. The pung had two buffalo robes and Peter a big coat made out of the same material. They dressed warm and were good neighbors.

Peter was a republican so was my father and they conversed freely over the progress of the war and called democrats "copper heads" and thought General Grant was the greatest man living and if it wasn't for the Northern Secesh sympathizers, would bring the war to a speedy close.

One time I remember of father telling mother that Peter always put his foot to the trough while eating. On the next visit my sister and I watched him carefully while at the table, expecting to see his foot come into the plate at any moment, but it didn't. The meaning of the remark, which was very applicable to the table manners was misunderstood to us.

When cherries were ripe I managed to call on him and eat my fill of them. One time I climbed into a cherry tree and with Charlie Mead pulling down on it so as to get cherries we managed to split down one-half the tree. This very properly enraged Mr. Shores and he told us we could never have any more cherries at his place. He related, however, and we got cherries there just the same, but were more careful.

I helped him hoe corn. He wouldn't at first allow me to hoe along with the other hands, but put me in a corner of the corn piece all by myself, after showing me how he wanted it hoed. I followed his instruction and hoed all by my lonesome. An hour or so later he came over and carefully examined my work. He brushed out the dirt around the spears to see if I had "fingered it out" as directed. He found it all right and told me I could take a row along with the others, which I of course much preferred than working alone. I ever after hoed and worked with the gang while in his employ.

Peter had no children and as age crept on he finally sold the farm to Herbert N. Sanborn and came into the village (Meridith Center) to live. He was cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Coriess, who came into possession of his property.

Out of the Dolloff Brook came my first trout. It was but a few rods from the road and where the brush fence crossed the brook. White foam floated on the water and in the bushes. The line was home-made, twisted out of coarse black sewing thread and the sinker was tea-chest lead.

The pole was cut near the brook. I do not remember whether ash, alder or maple. I dropped the worm, fished on the foaming water, felt a tug and yanked out a sizable trout. There was no legal length fish at that time.

Father was nearby and smiled at my childish eagerness.

Grown-ups playing "rimmy" annoys me more than when the hired girl has a beau. The former sit near the lamp where I'm writing and continually talk over the cards. The latter goes into an inner room and sits in the dark eating chocolates. Both are done for amusement and that is my excuse for writing this stuff.

I'm gazing in the face of the family clock. It has a familiar look. Almost the same as when I was a boy and the clock, like myself, was young. My ambition was then different from now and I presume the clock's remains about the same. It don't announce time quite as accurately as it did in its earlier days—neither do I do as good work.

The clock is ticking away apparently undisturbed—I wish I could truthfully say that about my condition.

The clock used to run 8 days after one winding—so did I—but in late years it has to be wound up oftener—that's me exactly.

The time was when father would step into a chair (clock is up high) and wind it every Sunday morning and it would strike the hours clearly. This I can do with my hands on the dial with precision for eight long days.

Before father passed his work over to be done by others the clock began to lag. It was wound one day earlier and finally it got so sick and tired it was sent to the hospital for repairs. That is, the way they did it with me.

The clock is back occupying its former place, but needs winding and handling with great care. It's not much good now. That's my condition.

Did you ever think how many blows the lead hammer has struck, the coil-wire and gave out sound? Sixty-three years it has been in service. It strikes 156 blows every 24 hours and if my figures are correct, 3,559,716 have been struck. It's done some pounding. Sure, so have I. The clock and I will soon be dropped on the scrap-heap and our work done by others. I'm not kicking about it, either.

In 1913 I put in a water system and hazel sticks and sweet apple tree limbs located "a vein." A 26-foot hole was dug in the earth sufficiently wide to stone up 6 feet in diameter. The well was on a hill and a trench cut to it so the water would come out under pressure. This required a good number of men, horses, derrick and dynamite for several weeks.

I was busy whitening on canvas and watching the progress. It was finally completed with a cement watering trough at the Four Corners of the road. The expense was something but I was amply repaid the fun of doing it.

I now have nearly 40 water-takers who find no fault about the quantity and quality of the water. Not so with the watering trough. In the winter the over-flow pipe freezes and the water runs into the road and makes a big and dangerous mountain of ice interfering with the safety of travel and is a nuisance. As I'm not there and can't get anyone to attend to it, I fear I'll have to shut out the water during the cold spell or pay damages for obstructing the highway. It is a serious matter for me.

I wish some one would volunteer to care for the trough during the winter. I'll pay them well for so doing.

I forgot to say the ninety peaceful water takers are sleeping the sleep that knows no earthly waking in the Robinson Burying Ground.

I worked two seasons haying for Col. Eben Pitman, stopping there nights and shared a bed with Frank Pickering, who now lives on the John Webster place, having married into it and raised up a sizable family of good children. We were about the same age. He was hired by the year and I by the day. I was attending school at New Hampton and he was then receiving the schooling he has ever since followed—that of farming. He was more valuable to Mr. Pitman than I before breakfast, while I assisted in doing the chores and helping the hired girl, Miss Emma Harris.

The Colonel would rap on the chamber door before sunrise and it was a signal to be up and doing. My first duty was to take a large yellow pitcher and fill it with cider from a particular barrel in the cellar and to fill a small blue pitcher from a different cask. The big pitcher was placed in the doorway all cupboard and the latter one went into the buttery or pantry. One was for the hired men and the other for the Colonel's use. This I did every morning.

The cows were milked and turned to pasture and I held scythes on the grindstone while the old Colonel turned the crank and talked. Each hand had two scythes and it was my duty to see that they were kept in cutting order. I often thought Mr. Pitman liked to talk with me and I surely was interested in what he had to say. The Colorado beetle had just commenced to put in its appearance and I had read a Government report on it and talked learnedly on the subject. One of the men objected to my holding the scythe on the stone and he would leave it in the field. I was repeatedly sent to get Monroe's scythe. One time—without the knowledge of the Colonel—when I was sent to get his scythe, I took along with me an old and useless one and hung it in the scythe and took Monroe's scythe and ground it and put it in its usual place in the cider mill.

The next morning Monroe came into the field late and took his rigging from the apple tree and after the customary used of the rifle, started in to mow but it would not cut; he again industriously applied the rifle, but to no purpose. The joke dived on him and he was mad all through and swore dire vengeance on me. I went to the house for his freshly ground scythe and was told by the Colonel that he could not help laughing—behind his back. Ever after that his scythe was among the others, though he stoutly claimed I didn't know how to grind it even if I was "studying law and physics at New Hampton Institution."

There were seven of us in the field and oxen were used to draw in the hay. I have known them to run away and kick up a great commotion when stung by hornets. Care was used to keep clear of the nests, but the driver would occasionally get careless.

The Colonel was a heavy man and got about the field with two canes. He would perch on a knoll overlooking the field and watch operations something as a big general does in battle. Occasionally he would give orders. A jug of cider and one of water were usually near him, though he used both sparingly and did not allow "2 o'clock meetings" on his farm but an occasional "5 o'clock meeting" was had, over which the Colonel had little or no control.

One of the fields has since grown up to sizable bushes and pines. The time of which I'm writing was 43 years ago. The Colonel and his wife lay in the family yard on a knoll near the house and the farm has come into hands of strangers. The buildings are well kept and there is an air of prosperity about them. One of the door-locks which I used to hold in the evening with the hired girl, is there.

I had a fight with Frank Smith at school. Our faces were torn and bloody and the teacher took a hand in it and gave us both a trouncing. I was much worried lest father would find it out and administer another flogging as was his custom when I went wrong at school.

This Frank Smith, in after life was called "Capt. Straight" on account of his lank proportions and great height. I remember when he took his first chew of tobacco and was made sick. He pleaded with us to send for his granny, as he wouldn't live a minute. The sun went down he said and it became dark to him. He vomited and soon recovered. His grammar found out Frank had been chewing and made things lively for us with her tongue.

His grandfather was led around the streets in Lacomia with a rope on his neck, but as there were no newspapers in those early days he escaped immediate death. He was a loud mouthed, offensive "copper head" and it was in war times and the talk he was making was not popular with the over-weighted war spirit of Lacomia and he was really fortunate to escape.

He didn't go to town for weeks and months thereafter and when he did go, he was silent on the national issues of those stirring times.

He voted the Democratic ticket and privately abused the Black Republican War and hoped to see Abe Lincoln cut into inch pieces.

I thought John Smith a bad man. He bubbled over with suppressed joy after the first battle of Bull Run.

At school the grandson was called "Bloody Bones" and "Stibber Staber" and it may be the use of these names caused the fight. I fail to remember.

Frank married and reared a big family of children, several of whom were feeble minded. He finally tired of living and committed suicide by hanging. I never much blamed him. He lived a very unhappy life.

Nancy is a near neighbor and has a darling baby. This is what the women folks say. It lays in the cradle and sticks out its chubby little arms for you to take it up and caress it. I haven't heard it cry of a night while here. That is something I cannot truthfully say of my Norway neighbor's babies. They ask for the bottle pretty regularly every night in a language all their own.

I don't understand why so large and metropolitan appearing sheet as the Rochester (N. H.) Courier fail to have "a running head" with date of issue on each page. It certainly should have it.

The owning of two dogs is a shiftless mess. I've had that number for several years and have become almost useless. One of them is nearly always on the wrong side of the door. Recently they got into a new habit; one dog goes out and the other comes in when I open the door. This saves time. They seem to realize my condition.

Safety First! Stop, look, listen and if you don't see, hear or feel a commotion, crank up and cross the track. That's the way Walter does and we haven't got hit yet.

F. W. Sanborn.

Supreme Judicial Court

Louis Clark as messenger, is an adept, and always on the move. Sheriff W. O. Frothingham claims that "this young man is the best official doing that duty in the state."

That old fashioned gilt time piece has been removed and a modern clock hung in its place. When the county business was removed from Paris Hill nearly a quarter of a century ago, this ticker also followed and has marked off the hours at every session until the time honored souvenir gave out. When and by whom was the old clock put in place on Paris Hill?

Patrick Harrington, convicted last March for the murder of Thomas W. Preece, is still held in the county because of a motion made by his counsel for a new trial. This matter will probably be taken up at the present term. It is charged that the county commissioners refuse to have the case printed for a review of the law court and that Harrington is not financially able to proceed in the matter.

The commissioner and counsels while re-locating lines connected with the Summer, Woodstock and Sumner, Peru controversy, discovered old trees spotted in the years 1786, 1791, 1806 and 1814. One monster spruce measured thirty-three inches in diameter. All of the early record attests to the existence of grants and patents given in Massachusetts before Maine became a state.

Elery Wheeler Died at Shelburne, N. H.
Elery Wheeler passed away September 24th at his home in Shelburne, N. H., at the age of 71 years and 9 months. Death was due to heart failure.

Mr. Wheeler was the son of Samuel and Elizabeth Burbank Wheeler and was born in Shelburne December 5, 1844. He attended the public schools at Shelburne. During the Civil War he served in the 14th New Hampshire regiment until the close of the war. He was selectman of Shelburne for three years and a Representative to the Legislature for one term.

November 18, 1870 he was united in marriage to Rowena Hutchinson of Albany, Me., who survives him. Also their only daughter, Lizzie L. Watson of Gorham, N. H.

In religious associations Mr. Wheeler was a Congregationalist. He was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Masonic Fraternities, Grand Army Post and Winthrop Grange.

The funeral was held September 27th at his late home in Shelburne, attended by Rev. G. L. Preece, Gorham, N. H. The bearers were members of the I. O. O. F. Lodge. The burial took place in the Wheeler Cemetery at Shelburne.

Wild raspberry blossoms in August produced ripe fruit on the sixth day of October. Quite a quantity were picked on that date by James Adams, in a field on the old Packard farm.

Automobile parties are not only enjoying the fine scenery and good roads of our town this fall, but they are seeing bears. On Sunday one was seen by three different parties while he was making his way from the middle section of the town to a favorite haunt on Gorman Hill. On his return trip Tuesday, back among his Woodstock friends of auto party met him again, quickly walking down the State road not far below the Chase district schoolhouse. Woodstock hunters are grieved at the chance he is taking of being run over. They don't want to lose him that way.

Leroy W. Titus and family have closed their house for a week and are visiting friends in Moonlight, Winthrop and Augusta.
